Events

- Her obituary was published. From the Garwood scrapbook at the Linesville Historical Society:
 The funeral of Miss Nina Talcott took place at the residence of her mother yesterday afternoon. It seems hard that one so young, scarcely out of her teens, should be taken from our midst, and yet we believe that our Creator knows what is best for us all, Miss Nina has been a sufferer for some time, and yet, though all the time much was being done for her, it has been known that death must come ere long. Her early death will be mourned by her many associates.

OBITUARY - One more in her youth has gone before us through the silent dwellings of the dead. The form once so active and beautiful now lies cold in death. The eyes that sparkled with animation of the future, are closed. The voice that sang out in the school room, is hushed and there is a vacant seat in the family circle. The death of Miss Nina TALCOTT was an event that came upon us not without warning. For seven months she struggled with disease, when consumption claimed her for a victim. We are as human beings too unwilling to believe that those we love must die. Hope tells us flattering tales and it is only when the form is tenantless and worthless clay, that we wake from our dream to realize our fallacies. Hope in this instance deceived us awhile and fled, leaving us to bow before our Maker in grief and humility, to mourn the departed. Nina was a great sufferer most of the time. When spoken to in regard to the future she said she was trusting in the Savior. Her friends did all they could to relive her sufferings, attending to all her calls. Sadly we fell that her footsteps can never again be heard on the streets or in our houses. A firm friend, a dutiful and loving daughter and affectionate sister has been lost to her friends and the community generally. She will be missed by all, and we can but say in the language of the poet:

'Tis very hard to give her up
 And leave her neath the sod;
 But, well we know she has a friend
 Whose constant care will never end,
 Her Father and her God

The above was sent to us for publication the week before last, too late for the issue of that week, and thinking perhaps it would be a little old a week later, we laid it aside, but as the friends of the deceased, Miss Nina Talcott very much desire to have it appear in print, we gladly gave it a place in the Independent this week. - Ed.
